Cry Me No Tigers, Please!

You can't win 'em all.
But you can try — and that's the true measure of good citizenship in this Republic of ours, whether you're an editor or just an unknown guy willing to stand up and fight omnipotent Government in defense of your beleaguered house.
It was the thousand names of fellow townsmen on the Petition that made our campaign valid in the eyes of America — and don't you forget it.
Of course the Petition to halt the new post office project is dead, and will be locked up in the newspaper's vault as a piece of history.
What happened yesterday was this: The Star got a telegram from Congressman Oren Harris announcing that the General Services Administration had moved into the picture, switched the proposed location of the new post office-federal building from a site out of the business district to a site inside the business district, and had declared this new site decision to be final. The complete text of the congressman's telegram is printed on this page.

I am at liberty now to say that before writing the editorial of January 3, which triggered this whole controversy, I was told by Judge James H. Pilkinton that he had talked to Congressman Harris about local opposition to the post office project, and the congressman replied that if this were the case he wanted to hear from the people. A petition was, therefore, in order. I employed Judge Pilkinton to draw up the Petition for me personally, and I personally paid for its circulation, which cost is non-deductible from federal income tax.

(If you believe this editorial stand by a newspaper is worth-while you now know why more than 200 newspapers joined me in the three-year fight of the Press Committee to Eliminate Censorship by Taxation to compel the U.S. Treasury to recognize tax deductions for the necessary expenses of a public crusade. Our committee failed and was disbanded. Therefore today Hope Star can't spend a nickel to get petitions printed and circulated, and an individual like myself has to pick up the bill as a personally-absorbed expense. No great fight by a newspaper or any other public spokesman can be staged without some activity beyond the editorial page.)

I want to make it clear, however, that Judge Pilkinton in writing up the Petition text was performing only the professional service of an attorney. I was against the entire idea of building a new post office — Judge Pilkinton favored construction but objected to the first announced site.

We had Congressman Harris' request for a Petition, but before it was completed there came this cancellation notice from Washington. What happened?

I can make an educated guess. The General Services Administration is the central expenditure control agency in Washington. When they spoke, the Post Office Department had to go along — and so did a mere congressman.

I correctly analyzed the situation in yesterday's editorial: Last year we were fed — and swallowed — the bright new federal invention called the "Zip Code." But what the attendant feeding the caged citizenry didn't tell us was that this envisioned a whole new system of handling the mail and requiring hundreds of millions of dollars to replace post office plants all over the nation. Now we know when it's too late.

So the "Zip Code" was the gimmick. Let's call it a tiger.

And you know, for a fact, that any time you meet up with a tiger a circus can't be far behind — and it's the circus that collects your money. In real life the tiger might have collected you personally — but this is only a paper tiger I am telling you about — in a story-book that unfortunately is as true as a tragic scene on Skid Row.

So, Cry Me No Tigers, Please — or let me next time be alert enough to foresee one year what will happen in the next.

Good comes out of any debate, whether you win or lose.

We have the signatures of a thousand Hope citizens who were jolted into constructive thought and public action in an emergency.

We put Hope on record before the nation as opposing and rejecting the shameful "grab" of federal funds for city streets, public housing in competition with private business, and other unwarranted federal invasions which are destroying local government and local responsibility — the very virtues which built America up and made her great.

Hope found itself in the national spotlight — the image being that of a hard-working, conservative and alarmed citizenry.

As your spokesman I wish to thank The Associated Press for carrying our story on the trunk wire from coast to coast, as evidenced by the letters printed in The Star from all over the country. Specifically I want to thank the following newspapers for their vigorous handling of AP copy on Hope: Arkansas Gazette, Memphis Commercial Appeal, Washington (D.C.) Post, Buffalo N.Y. Evening News, Milwaukee (Wis.) Journal, and Houston (Texas) Post, Texarkana Gazette, the newspaper trade magazine Editor & Publisher, all of our fellow Arkansas papers — and particularly the Wall Street Journal, national business daily, for its favorable editorial.

But most of all — Thanks to the one thousand fellow citizens who responded with signatures when we sounded the Macedonian cry.

Cry me no tigers, please!

Denies He Made Split With Baker

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Miami, Fla., vending machine operator denied to Senate investigators today that commissions he expected from a vending contract with a Washington area defense plant were to be shared with former Senate aide Robert G. Baker.

Eugene A. Hancock, president of Automatic Vending Services, Inc., testified that under an agreement he made in July 1963 with Interstate Vending of Chicago he was to receive a commission on gross sales from machines placed in the Falls Church, Va., plant of Melpar Inc.

Although Hancock said he never has been paid, he told the Senate Rules Committee he was to receive a one per cent commission on gross sales from the vending machine business at Melpar, and 1/2 of one per cent on gross sales of food in the plant's cafeteria.

Referring to these commissions, Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., a committee member, asked: "Isn't it true that Baker was to share in it?"

"No, sir," Hancock replied.

Curtis asked why Baker was "active" in helping Interstate obtain the contract at Melpar, an electronics firm with government defense contracts.

"I don't know," Hancock replied.

The vending contract at Melpar has become a focal point in the committee's investigation of the outside business interests of Baker, who resigned under fire Oct. 7 as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

Testimony Monday, before Hancock first took the witness chair, brought out that Baker had participated in a Florida land venture with Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and Scott I. Peek, former administrative assistant to Smathers.

The Rules Committee is investigating whether Baker had engaged in business dealings that conflicted his official duties.

The committee is investigating whether Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democratic majority, or other Senate employees have engaged in outside business which conflicted with their official duties or committed any other improper acts.

Hill testified that the payments were made to Baker and recorded in Capitol Vending's books of business expenses under such headings as "promotion" and "consultant."

"I was trying to protect Mr. Baker," Hill explained. "I also was trying to protect our company."

Text of Telegram From Rep. Harris Announcing Post Office Construction

The following telegram from Congressman Oren Harris was received by The Star after office hours Monday:

"Am advised today that General Services Administration, on reviewing sites for the new post office-federal building at Hope, has selected the site on the northeast corner of Second and Laurel Sts., containing 49,000 square feet.

"It will extend 166 feet north-south along Laurel St. and 300 feet to the east along Second St. Two 10-foot alleys will be utilized.

"This designation for the Hope facility is final, and replaces the tentative selection announced on December 19 last year (Ed Note: The location proposed December 19 was the northwest corner of Elm and Fifth Sts.)

"The Post Office Department concurs and fully approves this location for the new post office-federal building.

"The existing one-story post office building was constructed in 1912 with 4,250 square feet to serve the then community of approximately 4,000 people. It is completely inadequate to serve the current postal needs of more than 8,400 people of the city and the additional rural and trade territory.

"In addition to the present need of approximately 8,000 square feet of space to provide adequate postal facilities, there is dire need of some 6,000 square feet of space for federal agencies operating in Hope, most of which are now leasing space and operating in three locations.

"In addition to providing adequate needs of the post office and needed space for federal agencies, the new facility will save the government several thousand dollars on housing costs for the city of Hope on an annual basis over the next 50 years.

"I am advised that GSA will proceed immediately with acquisition of the site and construction at an early date with funds already budgeted and appropriated.

"The construction of the new needed facility will also provide employment in the community over the next several months.

Diplomatic Break Next for Panama

By ARY MOLEON

PANAMA (AP)—The Inter-American Peace Commission launched efforts today to break a deadlock between Panama and the United States on the proceedings for a settlement of the Canal Zone crisis.

The five-member commission met in closed session with Edwin M. Martin, chief negotiator for the United States, and Panama Foreign Minister Galileo Solis amid reports Panama has demanded the withdrawal of U.S. diplomats.

Talks aimed at restoring diplomatic relations severed by Panama at the height of the crisis last week, broke down after a midnight meeting on a Panamanian demand for a U.S. pledge for full revision of the Panama Canal treaty, diplomatic sources said.

It was reported in Washington that Panama has notified the United States it intends to go through with a complete break in diplomatic relations and is calling for the U.S. diplomats to get out.

In that situation President Johnson would appear to have no choice, under normal international procedure, but to order the departure of the ranking U.S. diplomat, Wallace Stuart, and his staff.

Solis told newsmen that when diplomatic relations are broken, diplomats lose their status as such and should leave. But he added that, if they choose to remain, they remain as private citizens.

Solis said Panama's present position is that there will be no resumption of diplomatic relations until the United States gives an assurance that it will undertake talks immediately for a new treaty.

In the past, he said, the United States has taken the position, whenever similar situations have arisen in recurrent crisis, that it will not negotiate under pressure. But when things quieted down again, he said, nothing happened.

Solis said his government would decide within 24 hours on a country to take over Panamanian affairs in Washington—the final step in severance of relations.

In Washington, the White House said the United States has an obligation to operate the Panama Canal "efficiently and securely" and "cannot allow the security of the Panama Canal to be imperiled."

"The United States continues to believe that when order is fully restored, it should be possible to have direct and candid discussions between the two governments," said the statement, issued after Assistant Secretary of State Thomas C. Mann returned from Panama and conferred with President Johnson for 2 hours and 20 minutes.

There were no outbreaks of violence Monday, although anti-U.S. sentiment was still apparent. Signs reading "Avenue of the Martyrs" appeared on President Kennedy Avenue, and street dividing the Canal Zone from Panama City, where some of the fiercest rioting occurred

Liz Taylor Files for Divorce

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP)—Movie star Elizabeth Taylor presented papers today demanding a divorce from singer Eddie Fisher.

Fisher, who is in Las Vegas, Nev., has 10 days to reply. He does not need to appear here.

A divorce would clear the way for Miss Taylor to marry actor Richard Burton, who is here with her.

Details on her allegations, filed with a local judge, were not immediately available.

In Los Angeles Milton Rudin, attorney for the actress, said the grounds were based on a unique Mexican law that enables one party to file for a divorce after a separation of a year or more from the home.

Miss Taylor and Fisher have been separated since the filming of "Cleopatra" two years ago.

Rudin said that as far as he knows Fisher has not yet given his consent to the filing, which would speed it considerably.

Should Fisher's consent to the suit be forthcoming within the next day or two, Rudin said it would take about 10 to 12 days after that to grant the divorce.

"I expect Richard Burton and Elizabeth to get married as soon as the divorce is granted," the lawyer said.

Lura Impson says coffee and doughnuts will be on sale, too, with all proceeds going to the March of Dimes.

As the Talent registrations come in, an announcement will be made in regard to scheduling certain events. Anyone wishing to appear should write KXAR giving full details of act, type of music, number of persons involved, and whether you need accompaniment. Also indicate the time you prefer to be on the show between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Hope Post Office Gets 2nd New Site, Project Will Be Constructed

Star Editor Concedes His Fight Lost

HOPE, Ark. (AP)—Alex Washburn, editor and publisher of the Hope Star, said today he apparently had lost his battle to keep the government from spending $500,000 on a new post office for Hope.

But Washburn said it wasn't a total defeat. "We demonstrated that this town was on the line against unnecessary government spending. And (earlier) we stopped cold federal paving and urban renewal aid programs."

Washburn collected 1,000 signatures on petitions opposing the new post office. He said he got a telegram from Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., today saying that the General Services Administration had said the decision already had been made to build the post office and "That junks our petitions," Washburn said.

But, Harris said, the GSA switched the site of the proposed building. Harris said he thought the move would overcome most objections.

Washburn objected to the building because, he said, it is not needed and government economy should begin at the grass roots level.

He said City Atty. James Pilkinton, a former state judge, drew up the petition for him and understood from Harris that if it could be demonstrated that the people were against the project, it might be stopped.

The new site of the proposed post office will be one block from Washburn's newspaper in the business section. The first location proposed was two blocks outside the business district.

Washburn said he had discontinued his petition campaign. "We didn't win but we didn't entirely lose," he said. "We were trumped by the GSA."

Station Holdup Suspect Taken

SILAS SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Police arrested James Buffington, 18, of Gentry as he walked along a Silas Springs street today following a manhunt for a young man who robbed a Gentry service station of $210 earlier today.

Buffington was held in the Silas Springs jail. The robber used an automatic pistol in the robbery. He fled on foot in five degree weather after wrecking the car he was driving.

And Now's the Time When Back-Sliding Begins on New Year's Resolutions

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Life is getting back to normal in the average American business office, and everybody feels better. At the start of a new year, there is always a tremendous surge of efficiency.

The suggestion box is stuffed with big ideas from the hired hands on how the company can dominate its industry, ideas which a thoughtful management promptly dumps in a wastebasket.

Everyone is full of pep, and attacks his duties with the frenzy of an eager beaver who is afraid there'll be no tomorrow. Each employee rushes through breakfast to get to work on time. The time spent on coffee breaks drops.

The bunch that usually trade gossip at the water cooler now bend busily over their desks. Even the office boy quits spending half his day looking at himself in the washroom mirror while he combs his hair, and decides to take a course in night school to prepare himself for taking over the company's leadership.

At the end of five days of this extraordinary activity, Harry Quibbe, the union shop steward,

Frugal P.O. Head Boasts 1 Pair Shoes

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP)—When President Johnson talks with Postmaster General John A. Gronouski about frugality in the nation's postal system, he's talking with a man who owns only one pair of shoes.

And the Cabinet officer who hasn't bothered to buy another pair didn't bother to buy a tuxedo until he had been in Washington for several weeks.

As for cocktail parties, he regards them in a way that should delight the President who thinks there are better ways for government people to spend their time: "They're the supreme form of self-torture and a waste of time besides."

He is very happy working for Johnson and being postmaster general, a task he regards as "the best job I ever had."

Gronouski, 44, has been in office since Sept. 30, when he became President John F. Kennedy's last Cabinet appointment.

At first bewildered by the magnitude of the new job, Gronouski now regards the Post Office Department as home. And he looked the part as he was interviewed in his vast, well-appointed office.

The former Wisconsin tax commissioner tilted his green leather chair as far back as it could go and stretched his feet, in the one and only pair of black, scuffed shoes—onto the top of his desk.

Picking up his curved pipe, he filled it with tobacco from a commercial pouch and stamped it with a thumb. Sucking on a cough drop in anticipation of laryngitis, John Gronouski reflected on his new life.

"I'm having a lot of fun. I've enjoyed this job tremendously. There have been no serious headaches—and I wouldn't have taken the job if there weren't a few small ones. They could have given it to a clerk if there were no headaches at all."

Gronouski—master of nearly 500,000 employees, commanding a pay roll of nearly $10 million a day—said he is getting the knack of it now.

ard, voices a worry: "If we keep up this pace, fellows, we'll have all the year's work done by April—and then they'll cut the office staff in half."

His concern is unnecessary. Enthusiasm for reform usually is short-lived.

By the close of the first week, backsliding begins. The secretary who got to work five minutes early now starts arriving five minutes late, then 10, then 15.

The vice presidents who were so intent on solving their problems go back to shuffling papers, writing cloudy memos and passing the buck.

The coffee breaks get longer. Those who couldn't find enough to do last week now are complaining if they have to do anything. Clock watching is popular again, and it seems like a long, long time until quitting time.

Yes, the annual perfection binge is over. The boss is pleased rather than displeased. Confident now that no executive on his staff will knife him out of his job, he packs his golf bags for a well-earned rest in Florida.

GSA Moves in, Decision to Be Final

WASHINGTON (AP)—The General Services Administration switched the site of the proposed $500,000 post office and federal building at Hope and Rep. Oren Harris said he thought the move would overcome most objections to the structure.

Alex Washburn, editor and publisher of the Hope Star, objects to the building on the grounds that it is not needed and that government economy should begin at the ground level. He is spearheading a petition campaign in an effort to have Harris halt the construction.

Harris said the present post office, built in 1912, was now inadequate and said a new one would save money because it would house offices of federal agencies now leasing space at Hope.

The savings would amount to about $8,000 a year, Harris said. He said the site for the structure was changed because plans have been made to industrialize the area in which the first site is located.

Harris also said construction of the building would provide several months of substantial employment at Hope and that the GSA plans to proceed immediately to acquire the new property.

Funds have already been budgeted and appropriated for the project, Harris said.

Washburn's campaign began originally as a "grassroots" attack against unnecessary federal spending, but he said Monday in an editorial that "the true issue is not the Hope post office, but the ZIP Code."

"They told us of the wonders

Lt. Wm. Andrews Is Given Medal

The Secretary of the Army has awarded the Army Commendation Medal to First Lieutenant William C. Andrews, Adjutant General's Corps, U.S. Army, for meritorious service. He distinguished himself by commendable service as Assistant Chief and Chief Administrative Services Division, 25th Infantry Division, Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, from October 12, 1962 to November 3, 1963.

Although operating without prior experience in this field, Lt. Andrews through his ability as an organizer, molded a smoothly functioning efficient and combat ready organization. He planned and executed administrative changes required for re-organization of the 25th Infantry Division under ROAD in such a manner as to minimize the difficulties involved in retiring records, establishing new files, and adjusting the distribution of publications. He improved procedures and revised the directives pertaining to his area of responsibility, largely on his own initiative.

Arabs Fight Water Plan of Israel

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

CAIRO (AP)—The Arab summit conference buckled down today to the hard facts of what the Arab states can—and can't—do about Israel's plans to divert waters of the Jordan River.

The chiefs of state and government leaders of the 13-nation Arab League were to hear reports from the league's permanent joint military committee and from the Arab Technical Commission for Jordan Waters.

A spokesman for President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic said after the opening conference session Monday the leaders unanimously agreed the meeting must adopt "definite resolutions."

Nasser, moving spirit behind the conference, indicated to the opening session that the meeting would be asked to implement recommendations made in 1961 by the Arab Defense Council. These never were put into force because the other Arab states feared they would give Nasser control of the Arab world.

The 1961 recommendations include establishment of a joint Arab general command, a survey of each nation's fighting forces and the ultimate placing of these armies "at the disposal of a supreme command."

Before the conference, Nasser said the Arabs could not use force against Israel "because our circumstances do not enable us to do so." But he told the conference Monday the 1961 recommendations look toward unified military action, with the Arab world using "all its forces together with foreign aid."

"This means Arab countries must be ready to destroy Israel's military preparations," Nasser declared.

The conference was being accompanied by moves to end quarrels between individual Arab states.

of the ZIP Code," he wrote. "What they didn't tell us was that this would involve untold millions of dollars for new post office plants in practically every county seat town in America."

Washburn said Monday he had gotten 1,000 signatures to his petitions and these are enough to stop the project because they represent a majority in any primary election in the city.

He said he would try to get 2,000 signatures before sending the petitions to Harris.

last week. In Panama City, business houses reopened and American personnel returned to the U.S. Embassy for the first time since they evacuated the building Friday.

U.S. military authorities at Balboa announced that an evacuation would probably begin today of dependents of U.S. military and civilian personnel desiring to return to the United States rather than return to their homes in the Panama republic.

At Balboa High School and other schools in the Canal Zone, workers began erecting twin flagpoles Sunday in line with the U.S.-Panamanian agreement to fly flags of both nations side by side in the zone.

Groups of U.S. students in cars yelled at the workmen: "We'll never go back to school there." Student defiance of the flag regulations last week mushroomed into the violence that brought relations between the United States and Panama to their critical state.

Officials said all schools in the zone would reopen Wednesday, except for an elementary school at Ancon which was damaged during the demonstrations.

Panamanian President Roberto Chiari severed relations with the United States last Friday, after a wild night of violence and attempts by inflamed Panamanians to invade the U.S. controlled Canal zone. Before order was finally restored Sunday night, three American soldiers and 21 Panamanians had been killed.

A five-man joint authority, formed under OAS auspices to keep peace along the Canal Zone border, held its first meeting Monday but issued no word of any decisions. A source in Washington indicated the border would be patrolled by the Panamanian National Guard and U.S. military forces.

Ambassador Manuel Trucio of Chile was named head of the peace authority, representing the OAS. The U.S. members are William Beldon political adviser to Gen. Andrew P. O'Meara, commander of U.S. forces in the Canal Zone, and Lt. Gen. George Mabry, chief of U.S. military operations in the zone. Panama named Col. ulio Cordoves, former secretary of the Panamanian National Guard, and Eloy Bendetti, legal adviser to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

U.S. congressmen in Washington voiced new disapproval of the 1960 agreement to allow the Panamanian flag to be flown in the Canal Zone.

Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said Panama "had no more right to fly her flag there than England has to fly her flag in the capital of the United States." He likened Panama to a blackmailer whose appetite had been whetted by the first payment.

Rep. Armistead Selden, D-Ala., chairman of a House subcommittee on inter-American affairs, maintained the flag concession should have been handled under treaty revision procedures that would have required Senate approval rather than executive action.

"There is no way to appease or satisfy the political appetites of the Panamanians," said Rep. William Cramer, R-Fla.

Hundreds of motorists were stranded, highways were blocked, hundreds of schools closed in the Midwest, East and South and light snow fell in northwest Florida.

A hard overnight freeze was forecast for southern Texas. Freeze warnings were issued for extreme northern Florida with frost and freeze warnings for the central part of the state. The weather bureau described the massive snow storm as the worst of the winter.

Who'll Pay for Houses Dam Ruined?

By ROBERT M. BURNETT

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Wrecking crews marked the one-month anniversary of the Baldwin Hills Dam disaster today by ramming bulldozers through homes left mangled by the devastating flood.

The area below the broken reservoir—once a tranquil and attractive residential neighborhood—now looks like an urban renewal project as trucks in an endless string haul away rubble and mud.

Homes on each side of the flood path, sliced open by the rampaging waters, gaped on the busy scene, grim reminders of the Dec. 14 tragedy that killed five persons, injured 27, and caused damage estimated at more than $11 million.

Stricken residents, still shocked by the sudden loss, watch demolition crews rip apart the wreckage of their dwellings.

Mrs. Mollie Kaplan voiced a typical reaction as a giant crane tore the roof from her home and dropped it into a truck.

"Somebody is going to have to pay us for this," she said.

Like most victims, she isn't sure just who that will be.

Authorities say 41 homes were swept away or smashed beyond repair.

An estimated 1,500 dwellings were damaged, including 400 of the 650 apartments in Village Green, a garden-court develop-

Panama Dispute Similar to One Over Suez Canal But Basically Different

Tops in State

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—While there is some similarity between events now involving the Panama Canal and what happened at the Suez Canal in 1956 there is small chance the outcome will be the same.

The Egyptians seized Suez in 1956 and have run it since. But Secretary of State Dean Rusk says this country cannot afford to pull out of the Panama Canal Zone even though the Panama Assembly has demanded Panamanian control.

What was similar at both canals was the rising nationalism of Egyptians and Panamanians and their resentment of a foreign presence on their soil: the British at Suez and Americans in Panama.

In both cases Egyptian and Panamanian nationalism was a by-product of World War II, which left the European colonial powers so prostrated they had to yield their colonies.

To Panamanians and others, particularly in Latin America, Americans in Panama no doubt mean sheer colonialism even though this country has a treaty with Panama to be there and run the canal.

Because this country is so big, considers itself the leader of the free world, and is trying to keep small and backward countries away from communism, it cannot help but feel self-conscious in its dispute with poor and tiny Panama.

For this reason the Panamanians can feel encouraged to push and push for concessions. By the same token, this country undoubtedly will feel compelled to make them although, from what Rusk says, not total withdrawal.

The background of the two canals is not identical.

While the French built the Suez Canal in 1869, the British became the canal company's biggest stockholder in 1875. They subsequently built a huge military base at Suez.

After the war, the Egyptians, like the rest of the Arab world, had enough of colonialism. They saw the British give up India in 1948. In 1952 an army revolt threw out King Farouk and took over Egypt. Not long afterward Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser became president.

He pressured the British into pulling their troops out of Suez. The United States and Britain hoped to win him over, offered to help him build a huge dam across the Nile. He dickered with the Soviet Union and tried to play both ends against the middle. He proclaimed himself a neutralist.

The United States and Britain withdrew their offer of help on the dam. Nasser retaliated by seizing the canal. Not long afterward Britain, France and Israel began an invasion of Egypt. This came to a quick stop when the United States and the Soviet Union disapproved.

The canal company's contract with Egypt was to run until 1968 after which the Suez was to be turned over to Egypt. Nasser took it 12 years ahead of time. The situation is different with the Panama Canal.

This country's 1903 treaty with Panama for American control of the canal completely lacks a limit like the British had at Suez. It says American control is to run forever, or at least indefinitely. This alone has irritated Panamanians.

But they benefit from the canal although whether they could benefit more if they tried to run it themselves is something else.

Panama gets almost $2 million a year from this country for use of the canal. Any income from the canal above operating costs is spent on improvements. The Panamanians get money from jobs they hold in the zone and from money spent in Panama itself by ships crews and tourists.

The canal has commercial importance to this country but not nearly so much military value as when it was built and this country had a one-ocean navy. But it is, in a sense, a military base. There are 36,000 Americans in the zone, including 10,000 troops and their families.

The Panamanians—at this time—will probably settle for less than control of the canal. They have made other demands: more money for use of the canal, some changes in the treaty, better pay for Panamanians working in the zone.

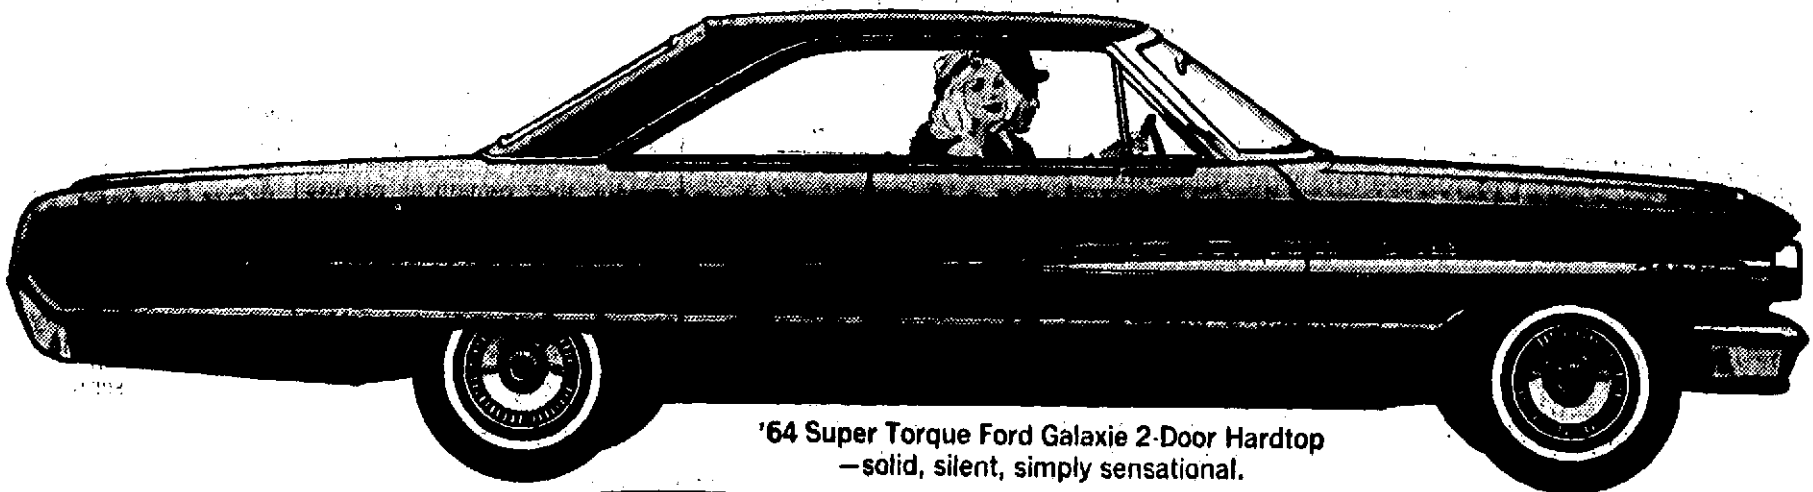

Nasser could seize Suez without declaring war on Britain because the last British troops had left before he acted. Panama could hardly try to grab the canal, if it ever had such a thought, without attacking American forces.

CHATTER

By "BILL"

Now that the Christmas razzle-dazzle is definitely over and we are right smack in the middle of January, it is a good time to take stock.

The discerning woman will want to open the shades, turn on the bright lights and stand in front of a mirror, not for a few hasty seconds but for a good, long look!

Starting from head to toe, we might just as well take our hair down. Those pastry-effect do's are out and no matter what color it is, smooth and shiny hair is the new look. A little exercise, the right kind of food, more milk than other liquids, a clean fresh scent, a simple frock, sheer seamless stockings and shoes with or without toes... all this coupled with enough rest and you will have that 1964 glow!

One more ingredient which is of utmost importance is... peace of mind. You will have this if you shop at Raley's Style Shoppe.

We have gone all out and all over to bring the smartest and newest to Hope, and we invite you to see... All our new spring fashions. Take stock and shop today at Raley's Style Shoppe — Hope's House of Fashion.

Cures for Elderly Are Scrutinized

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., warned today against new and more subtle forms of phony cures aimed at elderly persons. Williams' warning came at the start of a hearing by his Senate subcommittee on frauds and misrepresentation affecting the elderly.

State officials and private citizens who helped investigate practitioners charged with cancer quackery were among those scheduled to testify.

Williams said that the subcommittee, established by the Senate Committee on Aging, would like more information about the results of the 1958 California law on cancer quackery. He said the subcommittee wants to find out if the California law has forced "the salesmen and manufacturers of fraudulent medical devices to adopt new methods, and what can be done on a federal level to help states that are trying to grapple effectively with this problem."

THE THIN LINE BETWEEN LOVE AND HATE

By Helen Worden Erskine

Dear Helen: I am 17 and have dated a boy of 17 for about four months. We liked the same things and people and always enjoyed good clean fun. Everything was going fine when suddenly he dropped me. This came as a complete surprise for he had told my mother and his own how much he loved me, also his plans to marry me.

He and I were very close to our employer so I went to the boss with this problem. He gave me a frank answer. My boy friend dropped me because he knew that he would never get any more than a good-night kiss on our dates. Coming from a very moral family, I have been taught that all else was reserved for after marriage. Later on I discovered that he had got what he wanted from every girl he had dated until he came to me.

My big problem now is that he hates the sight of me and I just can't work in the same office with him acting that way toward me. How could his love change to hatred in this short time?

Loving him as much as I do I seem to feel humble. My boss says that if this boy's love is real and strong he will come back, taking me for what I am, not what I give. Should I stick or give him up for a no-good?

Dear D.: The line between love and hate is very thin. Both stem from strong passions. This boy must care else he could not hate you as he does. Steel yourself to continue working in the same office with him. If you find it rough going, so must he. Be friendly but impersonal. Yours is a waiting game. The advice your boss gave you is good. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my letter. "The Way to a Boy's Heart."

Dear Helen: I am 25, single

Churches to Move in on Smoke Issue

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Council of Churches appealed today for churches to take the lead in a battle against smoking.

Sam J. Allen, executive secretary of the council, said in a news release that "This is a religious and moral issue for almost the same reason that it is a public health issue."

"The smoking habits of most Americans do fall into the category of being detrimental to health," he said.

"Christians should take the surgeon general's report as an opportunity to teach proper respect for the body and lead the way in helping people break the smoking habit," Allen said.

He said churches should support and even establish withdrawal clinics for smokers who cannot break the habit by themselves.

have no right to choose my partner in marriage. Dad married Mother for money, she married him for excitement. Neither got what they were after.

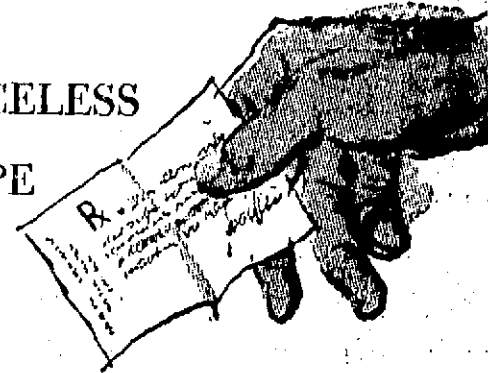

I am old-fashioned enough to believe that marriage should be founded on true love. My parents think money, purity, and looks sufficient. Do you agree?

—Desperate
Dear Desperate: No. A happy marriage must be rooted in love and mutual trust. Money is nice but this seems no problem where you are concerned. As for looks and purity; you, and not your parents, should be the judge. Necessity for the latter is debatable. On the basis of your mother's inflexible thinking, a widow would be ruled out. Nonsense! Just because you idolize her and your father, doesn't give them the right to dominate you. Furthermore, you'll not get the wife you're looking for unless you cut those apron strings.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamp, self-addressed envelope.

A PRICELESS RECIPE

In a health emergency, the little slip of paper on which your physician writes his prescription is priceless. You wouldn't part with it under any circumstances.

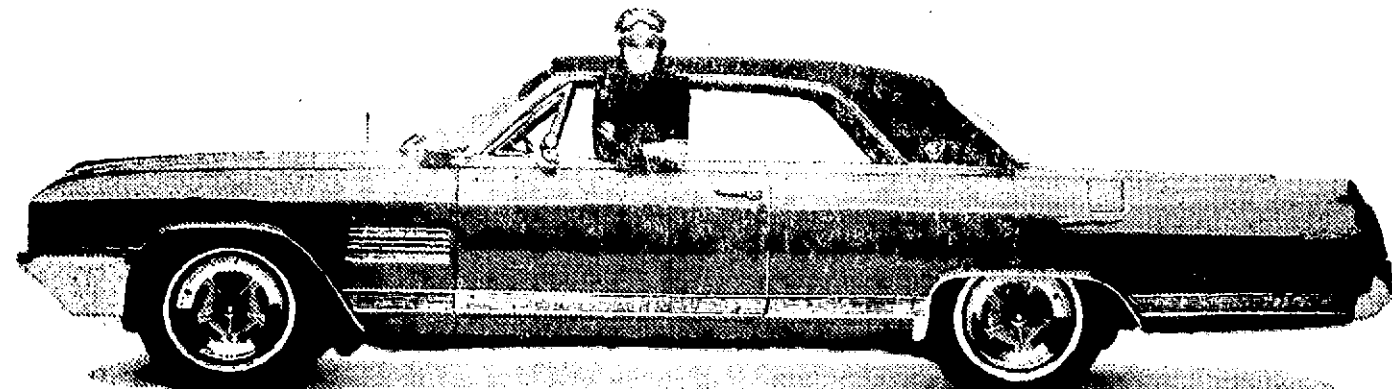

However, once the emergency has passed, human nature being what it is, you are apt to forget how valuable the prescription really was. Maybe you even grumble a little at its out-of-pocket cost, failing to remember the doctor's professional skill, the countless hours of pharmaceutical research and many other factors that made the "recipe" possible in a health crisis.

Permit our prescription department to fill your next "recipe for health."

It Is All Davidson in Davidson
By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Down in Davidson they love Davidson. And Davidson. In fact, Davidson is one of the big reasons Davidson loves Davidson so.

Let's get this confusing, let us explain:

There is a certain town in North Carolina called Davidson. The good people of the community have a great affection for a certain college there, also called Davidson. One of the reasons they have that affection is a certain basketball player, also called Davidson. Don Davidson.

Another reason is that the Davidson Wildcats keep on winning. The nation's fifth-ranked college basketball team reeled off victory No. 13 in an unbeaten season Monday night, beating The Citadel 88-67.

Vanderbilt, No. 6, the only other ranked team in action, beat Mississippi 88-81 and ran its record to 13-1. In other major action, Dayton romped over Portland 82-60 and Oklahoma State took over undisputed possession of first place in the Big Eight with a 77-58 clouting of Kansas State.

Davidson, the player and the Wildcats' top defensive operative, sparked a harassing, pressing defense that helped Davidson, the team, bomb out to a 16-point lead in the first 10 minutes. The Citadel was held to just two field goals in the span.

Vanderbilt was never in serious trouble against Ole Miss., with the Rebels closing up against Vandy subs only late in the game. The Commodores had a 60-40 halftime lead.

Top Sport for Girls Is Bowling
By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) —What's your guess on the favorite sport of teenage American girls?

It's bowling. At least that's what it says in "Seventeen News," a newsletter issued by guess which magazine.

The magazine made a survey of the 11,065,000 teen-agers in the country and came up with the figure that 83.8 per cent of them bowl.

Anybody who would believe that would believe anything.

Actually, there were a lot of strange statements in the survey.

The typical American teenager who emerges must live where there is lots of ice and snow, beaches and horses.

For example, the survey said that 54.1 per cent ride horses. And 82.8 per cent ride bicycles. That is a pretty good trick since only 66.7 per cent own bikes.

It didn't say how many own horses.

Some 70.7 per cent ice skate and 54.1 per cent roller skate. One foot at a time, apparently, since only 53.5 per cent own ice skates. Only 22.8 per cent own roller skates.

Tennis gets 65.5 per cent—half with borrowed rackets—and the survey said 24.5 per cent play golf.

Almost half, 45.1 per cent, water ski, and 19.2 per cent ski.

Louisiana Law Loses in Court
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down today a Louisiana law requiring designation on election ballots of the race of candidates for all elective offices in the state.

The decision was given on an appeal by two Negroes who were unsuccessful candidates for nomination as school board members of East Baton Rouge Parish in a Democratic primary election of July 29, 1962.

Justice Clark delivered the unanimous decision.

Clark's opinion declared that "by placing a racial label on a candidate at the most crucial stage in the electoral process—the instant before the vote is in the snow."

But only 9.2 per cent own their own golf club, 8.5 their own skis.

Almost all of the girls own bathing suits, but it is not clear how many go near the water.

This stack of statistics was compiled by asking 1,418 teenage girls what sports they like. Apparently their answers were multiplied by 7,816 to make 11 million. Statistics like that made Tom Dewey president, for a little while.

A novel about BENEDICT ARNOLD by PHILIP VAIL
© 1964 by Philip Vail
XXIXI

Benedict and Major Andre corresponded regularly but only in code. Both were cautious, each seeking to obtain the greatest possible benefits from a deal.

Benedict conceived the idea of obtaining the command of the strong American fortress at West Point in New York, knowing that if he could deliver the post to the enemy, Sir Henry would gain control of the Hudson River and would be in a position to move north into the Mohawk Valley.

A letter to the unsuspecting Philip Schuyler produced results. Benedict hinted that he wanted the West Point command and Schuyler promptly suggested to General Washington that he should be given the position.

In the spring, Peggy bore a son, named Edward after her father. Benedict immediately redoubled his efforts to obtain funds. He made a trip to New Haven and offered his house and other property for sale. En route back to Philadelphia, he went straight to the headquarters of the Commander-in-Chief. Washington had marched into the state of New York with the bulk of his army and was encamped in woods near the Hudson River.

The meeting was the first between the two men since the Commander-in-Chief had written his letter of reprimand. Neither mentioned the communication now, and Washington was gracious as he received his visitor in his field tent.

"I'm pleased to note that your wounded leg is much improved, General Arnold," he said.

Benedict limped to a chair on the far side of the tent.

Marriage, Washington thought, had tamed the man who had always been the first to volunteer for a combat assignment. "If you need more time to recuperate, I'll gladly give you West Point."

"Thank you, sir,"

"—even though an officer of your rank and stature isn't needed there. To be frank, Arnold, I've had another position in mind for you."

Benedict grew tense; yet he smiled steadily.

"If you've recovered sufficiently, I'm prepared to give you command of my left wing."

Benedict was speechless. The left wing of the Continental line was comprised of the assault infantry divisions and independent brigades. Assumption of the command would make him the second most important man in the American army.

Once Benedict would have leaped at the offer, regardless of his health. Now, however, it was too late to turn back. In his last letter to Major Andre, he had flatly demanded 10,000 pounds in gold for the transference of his allegiance, and another 20,000 in sterling for delivering the garrison at West Point.

Washington saw that his visitor had grown pale. "I thought you might be surprised," he said, his smile indicating that he believed the impetuous Arnold would change his mind.

"You pay me a great compliment, sir," Benedict knew that a single misstep could ruin his plans. "I wish I deserved the honor."

"I must be the judge of that," Washington's smile became broader as he leaned back in his chair.

Benedict's shirt was soaked with perspiration, but his expression did not change. "No matter what may happen, I'll always remember your offer."

Washington scribbled a notation on a sheet of paper. "You shall have West Point. The orders will be issued this week."

The long months of haggling, of writing endless letters and rearranging details were ended. On the night of September 21, 1780, Benedict had himself rowed down the Hudson from the commandant's house on the bluff at West Point. Putting ashore on the west bank, he climbed the palisades and made his way toward a stand of fir trees. The night was dark, but on the far side of the river he could see the outlines of the British gunboat, the Vulture.

Andre reached the top of the palisades, breathing easily; he stopped to look around. Benedict moved into the open for an instant, then retreated again and waited behind the trees. The English major hurried to-cast—the state furnishes a vehicle by which racial prejudice may be so aroused as to operate against one group because of race and for another."

The Negroes, Dupuy H. Anderson and Acie J. Belton, contended the Louisiana requirement unconstitutionally "makes racial discrimination possible and encourages the practices."

Counsel for Louisiana replied that the state's purpose was an informed electorate, "and an informed electorate will discriminate."

"If this were not so, an election should not be held," the state contended, "for the holding of an election is an opportunity for the elector to discriminate, to which he is most certainly entitled."

The Justice Department, in a "friend of the court" brief, asked that the Louisiana requirement be struck down. The brief said the inevitable effect of the requirement was to encourage voters to cast their ballots along racial lines.

The Negroes appealed to the high tribunal from a decision by a special three-judge federal court in Baton Rouge.

ward him; they stared at each other in silence. After so many months of correspondence, the shock of meeting was greater than either had anticipated. Neither could speak.

Then Andre saluted. Benedict returned the gesture and they shook hands. "I've waited a long time for this," Benedict said at last.

Razorback, Tennessee Game 'Out'

By ALVIN SCHAY

Associated Press Writer

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—In August, arrangements were made for a 1965 football meeting between the Arkansas Razorbacks and the Tennessee Volunteers.

Monday, it was announced that the Arkansas-Tennessee game was off.

Arkansas Athletic Director John Barnhill said Monday night that the main reason for cancelling the game was because Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles and Dickey don't "want to play each other."

Barnhill said the two teams would be using much the same system on the gridiron.

Since the game was scheduled for September of 1965, both teams apparently wanted to face opponents which used different strategies — so the game would afford them more than something similar to an inter-squad game.

Arkansas now faces a South-west Conference team coached by a former assistant to Broyles. Hayden Fry of Southern Methodist was also offensive backfield coach when he left Arkansas.

Barnhill said Arkansas would play Oklahoma State in place of Tennessee, and Tennessee will schedule another inter-section foe.

Peters Gets Reward for Fast Ball

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Gary Peters has a fat contract, and a curve ball in the game condition.

A 26-year-old left-hander who nailed down American League Rookie of the Year honors last season by posting a 198 record, Peters received the fat contract Monday when he signed for the 1964 baseball season with the Chicago White Sox.

Peters signed for an estimated $20,000 from a distance of some 1,000 miles. While the announcement was made in Chicago, Peters was in Sarasota, Fla. working with pitching coach Ray Berres in an effort to reduce his portly curve ball.

"That's his only weakness—too big of a curve," says Berres. "He leaves the ball hanging up there for home runs some times, or it breaks so much it hits the feet of a right-handed batter. It's so big that batters can anticipate it."

Nevertheless, Peters proved difficult to anticipate last year after stepping into the White Sox' starting rotation reeling off 11 straight victories and eventually winning the league's earned run title with a 2.33 average.

While Peters became the first White Sox player to sign, third baseman Rich Rollins signed with Minnesota, catchers Ed Bailey and Gene Oliver with Milwaukee and pitchers Bob Garibaldi and Al Stanek with San Francisco.

Rollins, who had a broken jaw and a hip injury last season, signed for a contract in the neighborhood of $15,000-$20,000 after winding up third in the American League batting race with a .307 average. He hit 16 homers and collected 61 runs batted in.

Bailey, obtained from San Francisco, and Oliver, acquired from St. Louis, are expected to supply the Braves with additional power. Bailey hit .263 last season with 21 homers and 68 RBI while Oliver batted .241 with 17 homers and 63 RBI.

UCLA Lead Improves in Poll

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

The unbeaten UCLA Bruins have increased their lead in The Associated Press' weekly major college basketball poll on the strength of back-to-back victories over Southern California and Kentucky's second loss of the season.

The Bruins beat USC 79-59 and 78-71 last week and lifted their record to 13-0. Kentucky runner-up a week ago, was defeated by Vanderbilt in its first of three games last week and tumbled to fourth.

UCLA drew 35 first place votes and 404 points in the latest vote by a special panel of 41 regional selectors. Loyola of Chicago moved up one place to second with 312 points while Michigan also advanced one place to third with 298 points. Kentucky had 242. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second etc.

Loyola of Chicago beat Marquette 96-90 in its only outing last week for an 11-1 record. Michigan has the same won-lost mark after turning back Purdue 77-70. Kentucky, after its loss to Vanderbilt, whipped LSU and Tulane to put its record at 12-2. Undeclared Davidson remains in the No. 5 spot followed by Vanderbilt, Oregon State, Cincinnati, Villanova and Duke.

East-West Cage Game Is Tuesday

BOSTON (AP)—East Coach Red Auerbach hopes the West keeps Walt Bellamy at center in the 14th National Basketball Association All-Star game Tuesday night. Wilt Chamberlain gives Bill Russell more trouble.

The classic, preceded by an old timers event, is expected to be played without a hitch despite a howling blizzard Monday night which stranded some of the athletes en route. A party of 18 was hung up in Chicago and eight more delayed in St. Louis.

West center Bellamy of Baltimore, like the Celtics' pivot Russell, was a unanimous choice for his team in the balloting conducted by sports writers.

The player getting the most votes for his position starts, so Bellamy gets the nod over San Francisco's Chamberlain, who will not answer the opening whistle for the first time in five appearances.

"Chamberlain gives Russell more trouble than Bellamy," Auerbach said concerning his rebounding-shot blocking star.

Russell and Cincinnati's great all-around Oscar Robertson hub the East plans to slow down the West club whose five starters have an aggregate per-game scoring average of 121 points. Celtic Tommy Heinsohn and Sam Jones plus Cincinnati rookie Jerry Lucas complete the East five. Wayne Embry, Hal Greer, Len Chappell, Chet Walker and Tom Gola complete the squad.

Los Angeles Coach Fred Schaus will counter with his own Elgin Baylor and Jerry West along with Guy Rodgers of the Warriors and the elder all-star, Bob Pettit of St. Louis. Behind them will be Chamberlain, Bailey Howell, Don Ohl, Terry Dischinger and Lenny Wilkens.

Arkansas College led throughout after first jumping off to a 10-1 lead early in the first period. Leon Clements led scoring with 27 points for Ouachita. Lavaghaun Robertson led Arkansas College with 16.

The victory gave Ouachita a 7-1 AIC record while Arkansas College went 3-4 on the loss.

Ballet Study Improves Jump Star

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — John Thomas was a high jumper, has been at the age of 21. But now he's back because of ballet lessons.

Ballet lessons? "Why not," said Coach Tom Duffy. "They tend to loosen up the thigh muscles, give greater spring and they relax an athlete. And when a man is relaxed, he's confident. When he's confident, he's ready."

And Thomas, once again, is ready. He demonstrated it beyond doubt last weekend with a 7-2 leap in Boston's Knights of Columbus Games, the opener of the Eastern indoor season.

He missed once each at 7 feet 7-1 and 7-2, clearing each height on his second try. He failed three times at 7-4 1/2, a quarter of an inch better than the indoor record held by Russian Valery Brumel, the old foe who gave Thomas the leaping dol drums.

Thomas went on the decline after three straight losses to the Russian record holder and, for almost a year, dropped from the ranks of trackdom's elite.

"Those losses to Brumel affected him psychologically," Duffy said. "That just wears away at you."

Then, last year, Thomas called Duffy and asked for help in techniques and in rebuilding his shattered confidence.

"That's all I had to hear," Duffy said. "Just that he was sincere in starting over again and was intent in competing. The next night we were at Northeastern working out and we've been there three nights every week since."

At the same time, Duffy set up a whole new program for his 6-5 athlete, a program that included some new exercises and the ballet lessons.
